A star sign first to the Westward last evening about eight, the usual P. & O. signals (two rockets and a blue light) being given. The watchman on the roof of the building, who was provided with a telescope, was the first to see the signal, which being answered by a light of rockets, the ship was fired, which, as the island from its proximity.

It turned out to be a frigate of the company, which vessel left, this on a grand excursion two days ago. She is that excessively ugly little craft that lay for some time near the little—a good deal like the Van Prince and Melampus. We suppose it was a post-prandial treat.

We regret to learn that yesterday morning another man, James-Stephen John White, died from the injuries he received at the late accident at the Victoria Dock.

The fourth man is still in great danger.
